Sunday, 3rd Sept: In gathering for Mass, we have been drawn to the Lord. May we listen to his word with care, receive his body with faith, and be strengthened to serve him in our sisters and brothers.

Readings for Today – Sun: 27th August: The First Reading:

Jeremiah teaches us that once we come to know and treasure God's word, we cannot keep this good news to ourselves, even if there is a price to be paid for our faithfulness. The Second Reading: St. Paul urges us to offer ourselves as a living sacrifice. This is a challenge; it is also a caution: a living sacrifice can always choose to leave the altar! The Gospel: The cross and discipleship are inseparable. Jesus makes it clear that the cross is not a hindrance to his followers, but that we follow him by bearing our crosses in faith.
